WOMEN SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Against So Many Surgical Operations. How Mrs. Bethune and Mrs. Moore Escaped.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like a new woman. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble, and it made me a well woman. My health was all broken down, the doctors said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but I read that I began taking your Compound. I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was saved from the operation."—Mrs. CHARLES MOORE, R. R. No. 3, Murrayville, Ill.

Perryopolis.

PERRYOPOLIS, April 29.—Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather a good sized audience greeted the "Therapione" Friday evening at the High School Auditorium and were pleased with the performance. If more of these programs were announced and the public given an invitation it would seem that it would have a tendency to foster spirit toward advancement along literary lines among the young students in our schools.

The Philo Literary Society will present the following program on Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Auditorium:

Recitation Ethel Miller
Vocal solo Maude Russell
Vocal solo Raymond Lutz
Oration John Knorr
Piano duet, Viola Carson, H. Hopkins
Recitation Reba Murphy
Vocal solo Bourne Sharpe
Duet of Characters for Playlette, "The Surge."

Lola Rivers Helen Hopkins
Jean Jaspers Edna Carson
Lawrence Denny Drum
Aunt Drusilla Ethel Miller
Aunt Hilda Harry Ransner
Mr. Rivers Harold Ransner

Quite a pleasant surprise was that arranged by Mrs. Adam Hixson for her little daughter, Edna's eleventh birthday. About 15 little friends were waiting to greet her on her arrival from Connelleville at 3 P. M. A pleasant afternoon was spent playing games and partaking of the dainty luncheon prepared for the occasion. Miss Edna was remembered with many nice presents. Miss Margaret Feltz of Dunbar, was an out of town guest.

PERRYOPOLIS, April 30.—Mrs. Adeline Horvick of Wood City was called here by the serious illness of her father, James Slaley.

Thomas Hixson is making some improvements to his home.

W. W. Lutz of Connelleville was a recent business caller in town.

Frank Slaley and wife of Seaside were recent callers to see his father, near town.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one cure for deafness, and that is by constitutional medicine. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing cannot be recovered. No cases but of ten are cured by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrh cured by our medicine. Send for circular, free. E. J. O'BERRY, 200, Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists. Take Little's Family Pills for constipation.

T. Roosevelt, receptive candidate, has become a strenuous candidate. He body wants to know why he studied himself and became a candidate for a "Chief" term, the answer may be found in his Harborside letter-writing performance. He demands of the T. R. delegates that they not only support him for President, but that they become subjects of the Kinn machine.

TUBAL CAIN'S SHOP.

By James of Yukon.

"Old Tubal Cain was a man of might in the days when the earth was young." Thus twittered a half-trembling poet who twittered a line or two in order to prove to his audience that he was not a quitter. The poet in order to get a few lines to rhyme smothered a lot of red-hot facts which were in sparkling streaks from the anvil in Tubal Cain's blacksmith shop each time the sole owner and patron of the blacksmith struck when the iron was hot. Poetry in a word is the frosting of the cake, not the center meat of the cake.

The famous blacksmith shop was in the center of the Twenty-second anniversary debating contest. The winners, after Tubal Cain had finished schooling the neighbors' diploids and had carefully repaired all the siltarian horse wagons, the shop was then used as a town council hall, or as a general assembly hall. When the convulsed fathers gathered around the force line at night they usually made things come their way. Three times the managers of the West Telephone Street Car Company had surveys to run a line east of the town in order to reach the Devonian coke works, but at last the city fathers told them they had better run their tracks past the blacksmith shop or they would charge them $50 for each trolley pole if they stole across fields. They got what they wanted and gave the company a fifty year franchise.

Many a political shate was framed up in Tubal Cain's shop. Twenty-five to thirty legislators met every six months to create new jobs, raise salaries and take care of their fences for re-election. When the time came for a new building, all the old dads who want a political fence built they let it out to contract to the lowest bidder. The bidder had to furnish bonds that he would railroad his men through this making a candidate run dead sure.

One thing was certain in the days of Tubal Cain and that is a man got a run for his money. The man who received the highest number of votes for assembly, was the fust; the next highest, got a job in the folding and pasting room; the next highest, got a job to clean the cupholders, and so on down.

Each one was certain of something. Classified Advertisements. They cost only one cent a word, and bring results.

NEW CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED MAY 26

Insued by amber glass, the transparency in the dome being bound with Greek bar copper and ornamented with classically artistic moulding. The pews are of massive oak construction and the balcony is equipped with oak open chaises. The artificial illumination will be provided by electric lights arranged on the indirect, or cyma, or, system, all lamps being concealed, while their rays are perfectly diffused.

The new building has a basement 50x103 feet, with 110 outside entrances, seating capacity of 500, and elevated stage for entertainment purposes. The basement will be used for literary club meetings, children's day exercises, etc. It is well lighted and equipped with a drinking fountain. One of the features of the basement is a modern kitchen, to be used in connection with church festivals and other entertainments. A rolling room will also be provided, a well known element which will be kept open every night in the week, not only for members of the church but for everybody. The building is heated by the vapor-vacuum system, having all the advantages of both hot water and steam, but eliminates sizzling or any other noises usually heard in old system radiators.

Credit for the erection of the new edifice is largely due to the efforts of the pastor, the Rev. J. D. Garrison, and to the tireless energy of the women of the congregation, supplemented by the activity of the male members, but it can be said to stand as a memorial to the unselfish and self-sacrificing in and out of season for the accomplishment of a purpose undertaken before Somerset started on its present era of development. The building was not erected by contract. Frank B. Granger, a well known Somerset artisan, and a member of the church, superintended the construction work and personally worked out many of the intricate details. The edifice cost $10,000.

The Christian church, while not a religious body to establish a house of worship in Somerset, has long been recognized as exercising a powerful influence in the community. The church, in the past, has been a center of the community, and its members have been a source of strength and inspiration to the community. They Are Coming Back

Back to the Old Home Store old friends and new friends, and its the goods and the prices and the real home atmosphere that pervades this store. The right goods and the right prices have done their share towards an increased business this spring but the feeling that comes over you, as soon as you enter these doors, that this is your own home store has done equally as much towards increasing the business. Look around you next time you are here and see for yourself the evidences of increased business—visit the carpet room and see the rugs and carpets piled up ready to be delivered when wanted. These are things that tell a story that cannot be doubted.

New Curtain Scrims At 25c the Yard.

Showing this week about a dozen new pieces and patterns of fancy scrims at 25c the yard; plain and colors. Designs that are new and worth seeing.

Kid Gloves At $1.00 the Pair.

Centemerie's representative said to us the other day: "It's no wonder you sell so many of those gloves at $1. Why, we sell that same glove at $1.25 in our own retail store on Fifth avenue, New York. That's the maker's opinion of the glove we offer you at $1 the pair."

Vudor Shades.

Next week is Vudor week all over this country. That means that Vudor Shades will be shown from Maine to California. They come in 4, 6, 8 and 10 feet wide, and priced at $2.25, $3.25, $4.25 and $5.50. Vudor Shades are the best porch shades made. Lots of them in use in this town that we sold 5 and 6 years ago. You can't say that much of other porch shades.

Rugs and Carpets and Curtains.

Busier than ever before in this department, proving a statement we made some time ago that if you buy elsewhere you pay more. If you've a carpet or a rug want investigate for yourself.

Children's White Dresses at 56c.

A table of these—sizes 2 to 6 years. Look them over and see the material and the way they are made and then ask yourself if you can afford to buy the material and worry over the making.

A Linen Bargain.

A half bleached table linen, 64 inches wide; good and heavy; five pretty patterns; a 75c quality and while they last the price is 60c the yard. You will not find such linen quality elsewhere at this price.

The New English Toe

IS A WINNER FOR MEN

You hear a great amount of talk these days about the New English Toe for Men. It is getting to be very popular. There is a big contrast between the high raised toes with high heels and the low flat toe with real broad heels—a few hesitate, but most men especially young men are making the change and buying the New English Models.

THEY COME IN GOOD FOOTWEAR.

Hooper & Long

On the 3rd of May 1850, France and war against the French were victors in the first battle and peace soon came.

THE BATTLE what is known as "shop work" goes on all the time. IN OUR CONTRACT PAINTING DEPARTMENT we have to meet constantly the competition of prices so low that we know they will not pay for honest work. But those who have paid us our fair price have learned that it was really the cheapest. Want to know why?

NEW YORK, April 30.—In view of the radical changes that have taken place in the monthly statements of the Federal Reserve bank, the figures of the calendar year, unusual attention was paid to the reports for March which came to hand this week. After reporting a decrease of $39,024,000 in gross for 1933, the bank in the monthly statement for January showed decreases of $2,140,000 in gross and $7,019,000 in net. Then came the February figures showing a gain of $20,162,000 in gross and $48,162,000 in net. The figures for January in the Pacific, Southern Pacific and Atchafson, showed gains for February without considering the extra day. Naturally, these figures were understood by many to mean that the gains in gross at least had been regained.

CHAPTER I.

A Perilous Mission.

Several of us had remained rather late that evening about the cheerful fire in front of my hut—for the night was still chilly, although it was May, and the dreadful winter passed—discussing the improved condition of our troops, the rigid discipline of Baron de Steuben, and speculating on what would probably be attempted now that Sir Henry Clinton had succeeded to the command of the forces opposing us. I remember Maxwell joined us, together with Knox of the artillery, each man with a different theory of campaign, but alike regarding that, in spite of all we had endured during those months of suffering and privation at Valley Forge, the time to strike once again was near at hand, although our numbers were barely half that of the enemy.

It must have been midnight when I awoke to find my eyes gazing out through the open door to where the snore of the fire glowed red, and a sentinel paced back and forth in regular monotony. Suddenly he halted, and challenged hoarsely, flinging forward his gun. There was an indistinguishable answer, and as I stretched up the figure of a man blotted out the doorway.

"Major Lawrence?"

"Yes, what is it? I saw to the door, unable to recognize the voice, the man's hand rose to salute.

"I am Colonel Gibbs' orderly, General Hamilton wishes you to report at once at headquarters."

"This post house?"

"Yes, sir."

I dressed hastily, my pulses throbbing with excitement. Whatever the message meant, there was certainly some purpose of vital importance in sending for me at this unusual hour, and I was boy enough still to welcome any form of active service. No duty of the war had so tried me as the long winter of waiting. Yet, rapidly as I moved, the orderly had disappeared before I got outside, and I picked my way as best I could through the darkness, along the rear of McIntosh's hut, until I reached the low fence surrounding the post house. Here a sentinel challenged, calling the corporal of the guard, and in his company I trudged up the path to the front door. There was a light showing through the window to the left, although this shade was closely drawn, and a guard stood within the hall. At the first sound of our approach, however, a side door was flung open, letting forth a gleam of illumination, and I perceived the short, slight figure of Hamilton, as he peered forward to get a better glimpse of my face.

"All right, corporal," he said tersely, gripping my hand. "Come in, major; your promptness would seem to indicate a readiness to get into service once more."

"I had not yet fallen asleep," I explained, "but we all sleep enough for action of any description."

"He smiled cheerily.

"You will soon be busy, never fear."

He closed the door behind us, and, with a glance, I viewed the room and its occupants. It was a small, low-ceilinged apartment, containing a table, a few chairs and a high counter. A few candles glowed in the dim fireplaces, and the walls were lined with smoke. Three candles, already burned low, gave little illumination, revealing four occupants, all known to me. At an open door to the right stood a sweet-faced woman, glancing curiously at my entrance, and I whipped off my hat bowing low. Once before I had seen her, Mistress Washington, and welcomed the gracious recognition in her eyes. In an officer's room of the forty-second regiment, it might be well for you to familiarize yourself with a few of the names."

I studied the list a moment, bending down closer to the nearest candle, while rapidly reviewing in my own mind the duty required. I had no thought of refusal, yet appreciated to the full the possible danger of the venture, and felt anxious to make no serious mistake. I had achieved a reputation for reckless daring, yet this kind of service was hardly to my liking. To wear British uniform meant my condemnation as a spy, if discovered, and a death of disgrace. I had been within the lines of the enemy often before, but always as a scout, wearing the homopony of the Maryland line, but this was to be a masquerade, a juggling with chance. I was not greatly afraid of being unmasked by the officers of the garrison, but there were those then in Philadelphia who knew me—loyalists, secret sympathizers with our cause, and a few deserters from the army—whom I might encounter at any turn in the road. The prospect was not alluring, yet a glance at the profile of Washington, now bending low over a mass of papers, instantly offered my resolve. It was work I had no excuse to shrink—indeed no inclination—so I returned Hamilton's glance of inquiry, frankly.

"You wish me to go at once?"

"The earlier the better. I will take nish passports through our lines, and hard riding will put you across the neutral ground by daylight."

CURE FOR ECZEMA.

Discovery "Tint" Cures Eczema, Pimples and All Other Skin Diseases and Blemishes.

Hokara is recognized by the medical profession as an ideal treatment for eczema, pimples, blackheads, and freckles, and is a true food for the skin, cleansing the pores and making the skin soft, white and beautiful.

This remarkable preparation is being sold in Connelldale by A. J. Clarke at the low price of 25c for a liberal trial. Larger sizes 50c and $1.

If Hokara does not give satisfaction or do all that is claimed for it, you will return the empty jar to A. J. Clarke and he will refund your money. If you have any skin trouble, you cannot spend 25c to better advantage than for a jar of Hokara.

WOMEN SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Against So Many Surgical Operations. How Mrs. Bethune and Mrs. Moore Escaped.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room."

The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble and it made me a new woman. My health was all broken down; the doctors said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but I dreaded it so that I began taking your Compound. I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was saved from the operation."—Mrs. CHARLES MOORE, R. R. No. 3, Murrayville, Ill.

Perryopolis.

PERRYOPOLIS, April 28.—Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, a good sized audience greeted the "Thespians" Friday evening at the High School Auditorium and were pleased with the performance.

More of these programs were announced and the public invited to visitation—it would seem that it would have a tendency to foster a spirit of advancement along literary lines among the young students in our schools.

The Philo Literary Society will present the following program on Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Auditorium:

Essay..... Ethel Miller
Recitation..... Maude Russell
Vocal solo..... Raymond Luce
Oration..... John Korolik
Piano duet, Edna Carson, H. Hopkins
Recitation..... Reba Murphy
Vocal solo..... Cecar Thorpe
Cast of Characters for Playlet, "Sunset."

Lois Rivers..... Helen Hopkins
Jean Jaspers..... Edna Carson
Lawrence..... Denny Drum
Aunt Dorella..... Ethel Miller
Auntie Stodd..... Harry Farnier
Mr. Rivers..... Harold Blake

Quite a pleasant surprise was that arranged by Mrs. Adam Hixenbaugh for her little daughter, Edna's eleventh birthday. About 35 little friends were willing to greet her on her arrival from Connelldale at 3 P. M.

A pleasant afternoon was spent playing games and partaking of the dainty lunch prepared for the occasion. Miss Edna was remembered with many nice presents. Miss Margaret Polk of Pottsville sent an out of town guest.

PERRYOPOLIS, April 30.—Miss Adelle Herwick of Woodbury was called here by the serious illness of her father, James Herwick, a native of Perryopolis.

Thomas Hixenbaugh is making many improvements to his home.

W. W. Luce of Bellvernon was a recent business caller in town.

Frank Hixenbaugh and wife, Scottie, were recent callers to see his father, near town.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, it has a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by Catarrh that cannot be cured by local Catarrh Ointment, sent for examination.

NEW YORK, April 30.—In view of the radical changes that have taken place in the monthly statements of railroads since the beginning of the current year, the following information was paid to the reports for March which came to hand this week. After reporting a decrease of $30,924,000 in gross and $1,284,000 in net for the month, the statements of the railroads for January showed decreases of $440,000 in gross and $7,919,000 in net. Then came the February figures showing a gain of $20,752,000 in gross and $ 2,775,000 in net. Many roads including "Old" Southern, Northern and Atlantic, showed gains for February without considering the extra tax. Naturally, those figures were understood by many to mean that the railroads had in gross at least had been reached.

We, the undersigned Auditors of the Borough of Connellsville, Pennsylvania, hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct statement of the receipts and expenditures of Town Council of the Borough of Connellsville, Fayette County, Pennsylvania, for the year ending March 4, 1912, as shown by the books and records of said Town Council, and that the said books and records, as so shown by the foregoing, are true and correct, and that the said books and records, as so shown by the foregoing, do not show a balance due from S. V. Strawn, $1,277.70 Tax Collector for the year of 1904. We find that on February 18, 1907 his list for collection of taxes for the year of 1904, in full settlement of the account, showed no further exonerations. At the close of the last fiscal year the borough's records showed a balance due from him of $4,187.05, this amount we find to be in error, the correct amount should have been $2,928.56. We find that by resolution of March 28, 1910, in full settlement of this balance. No sufficient or legal reason for this action appears and no exoneration after 1907 seems to have been made. We therefore surcharge the Town Council with the difference between $2,938.50 and $1,650.80, or $1,277.70, which is further charged to the Town Council for the year ending March 4, 1912, out of the current revenues raised by taxation for that purpose. At the close of the fiscal year ending March 5, 1911, the balance due the Connellsville Water Company for hydrants was $689.74 and at the close of the fiscal year 1912 was $1,000.00, an amount which was not paid. The expense of the hydrants has not been paid out of the year's revenues, and only $1,000.00 was paid for this purpose during the said fiscal year.

The balance due the West Penn Electric Co., at the close of the fiscal year ending March 4, 1912, was $1,000.00 and at the close of fiscal year ending March 4, 1911, was $12,267.52, an income of $10,737.52, a current expense which should have been paid out of the current revenues of the year.

During the year no doubt some interest for which separate taxes were levied were paid, also certificates of indebtedness were issued amounting to $3,000.00. Either the amount of taxes levied for current expenses are inadequate or extravagance, unwise and unnecessary expenditures are made.

At the close of the fiscal year in March 1911, the amount of uncollected taxes was $38,200.77; at the close of fiscal year ending March 1, 1912, the balance of uncollected taxes was $16,867.97, or $21,332.80 less. Of this amount about $3,000.00 was exonerations. The balance of uncollected taxes for the year just closed the receipts were fully equal to the duplicate for this year.

CHAPTER I.

A Perilous Mission.

Several of us had remained rather late that evening about the cheerful fire in front of my hut—for the night was still chilly, although it was May, and the dreadful winter passed—discussing the improved condition of our troops, the rigid discipline of Baron de Steuben, and speculating on what would probably be attempted now that Sir Henry Clinton had succeeded to the command of the forces opposing us. I remember Maxwell joined us, together with Knox of the artillery, each man with a different theory of campaign, but all agreeing that, in spite of all we had endured during these months of suffering and privation at Valley Forge, the time to strike once again was near at hand, although our numbers were barely half that of the enemy.

It must have been midnight when I crept into a bunk, and even then could sleep absent, my eyes gazing out through the open door to where the embers of the fire glowed red, and a sentinel paced back and forth in regular monotony. Suddenly he halted, and challenged hoarsely, flinging forward his gun. There was an indistinguishable answer, and as I strained to see the figure of a man blotting out the doorway.

"Major Lawrence?"

"Yes. What is it?" I swung to the floor, unable to recognize the voice.

The man's hand rose to salute.

"I am Colonel Gibbs' orderly. General Hamilton wishes you to report at once at headquarters."

"The Potts house?"

"Yes, sir."

I dressed hastily, my pulses throbbing with eagerness. Whatever the message meant, there was certainly some purpose of vital importance in sending for me at this unusual hour, and I was by no means still to welcome any form of active service. No duty of the war had so tried me as the long winter of waiting. Yet, rapidly as I moved, the orderly had disappeared before I got outside, and I picked my way as best I could alone through the darkness, along the rear of McIntosh's huts, until I reached the low fence surrounding the Potts house. Here a sentinel challenged, calling the corporal of the guard, and in his company I trudged up the path to the front door. There was a light showing through the window to the left, although the shade was closely drawn, and a guard stood within the hall. At the first sound of our approach, however, a side door was flung open, letting forth a gleam of illumination, and I perceived the short, slight figure of Hamilton, as he peered forward to get a better glimpse of my face.

"All right, corporal," he said tersely, gripping my hand. "Come in, major; your promptness would seem to indicate a readiness to get into service once more."

"I had not yet fallen asleep," I explained, "but we are all eager enough for action of any description."

He smiled cheerily.

"You will soon be busy, never fear."

He closed the door behind us, and, with a glance, I viewed the room and its occupants. It was a small, low-ceilinged apartment, containing a table, a few chairs and a high commode. A few candles glowed in the wide fireplace, and the walls were dimly burning low, gave forth illumination, revealing four occupants, all known to me. At an open door to the right stood a sweet-faced woman, placing back cushions at my entrance, and I glimpsed of my hat box, long low. Once before I had seen her, Mistress Washington, and welcomed the gracious recognition in her eyes. Colonel Gibbs stood before the fireplace motionless, but my glance swept past him to the calm, uplifted face above the pile of papers littering the table. He was not looking at me, but his eyes were turned toward his wife.

"It is not necessary for you to retire," he said quietly. "We shall not detain this gentleman except for a few moments."

"It is not because of the major's coming I withdraw," she replied pleasantly, "but the hour is late, and I am very tired. Good night, all."

Washington's eyes then upon the door until it closed, and he turned slightly, facing me. Before he spoke again, Hamilton broke in.

"This is the officer, sir, recommended by General Maxwell—Major Lawrence of the Maryland line."

I bowed silently, and the commander rose to his feet, extending his hand.

"No doubt we have met before," he said slowly. "You have been with us for some time."

"My first action was at Harlem, sir."

"You could not have been at Valley Forge during the past winter, however?"

"I was with the Marquis de La Fayette at Albany."

"Ah, yes," he said, "a face clouding at the recollection. A young officer, Hamilton, but capable, no doubt. You have used him before, you said?"

"Yes, at Long Island, and he entered New York once at my request."

Washington's gray eyes were still on my face.

"Lawrence is a Massachusetts name."

"Not exclusively," I returned, "as our branch are Virginians."

The stern lines about the mouth relaxed into a smile.

"Indeed, from the eastern shore, then, I recall now having once met a Judge John Lawrence, whose wife was a Lee."

"My father, sir."

His hand rested firm on my shoulder, as his glance turned to Hamilton.

"I require no further commendation, colonel. You will find the papers in the second drawer. Please explain all the details carefully to Major Lawrence."

"This is a simple duty, major," said Hamilton, "but may prove a dangerous one. You have been selected because of previous successful efforts of a similar nature, but the commander-in-chief does not order your going; we seek a volunteer."

"Without asking the nature of the service," I answered sincerely, "I rejoice at the privilege."

"I knew that, Lawrence," he heartily.

"That answer accords with your well-earned reputation throughout the army. I will explain briefly the situation. Early this evening our pickets—or rather some partisan scouts near Newtown—captured a British officer, in field uniform, on his way from New York to Sir William Howe in Philadelphia. The prisoner was brought here, and on examination proved to be Lieut. Edgar Fortescue of the Forty-second regiment of foot. These troops came over with the last detachment, and arrived in New York less than a month ago. On searching Fortescue's clothing we found this dispatch," holding out a sealed paper, "which we opened. It is not of any great military importance, being merely an order for Howe to proceed at once to New York, taking with him certain officers of his staff, and placing a naval vessel at his disposal."

He paused, turning the paper over in his hands.

"However," he went on slowly, "it affords us the opportunity we have long been seeking of getting a competent military observer into Philadelphia. Now that Sir Henry Clinton is in command of the British forces directly opposing us, it is necessary that we know accurately their number, state of discipline, guns and any point of weakness in the defenses of the city. We require also information regarding the division of troops under Sir Henry's command—the proportion of British, Hessians and Tories, together with some inkling as to Clinton's immediate plans. There is a rumor abroad that Philadelphia is to be evacuated, and that the British forces contemplate a retreat overland to New York. Civilian fugitives drift into our camp constantly, bearing all manner of wild reports, but these accounts are so various as to be practically valueless. We must possess accurate details, and to gain these a man would need to be in the city several days, free to move about, observe, and converse with the officers of the garrison. Do I make myself clear?"

"Yes, sir; you propose forwarding the dispatch by an officer who shall impersonate this captured lieutenant."

"Exactly. Fortescue is a young fellow of about your age and build. He has been in the army only eight months and in this country less than thirty days. It is scarcely probable that he is known personally by any of the present Philadelphia garrison. There is a risk, of course, but in this case it would seem to be small. He picked up a paper from off the table. 'Here is an officer's roster of the forty-second regiment. It might be well for you to familiarize yourself with a few of the names.'"

I studied the list a moment, bending down closer to the nearest candle, while rapidly reviewing in my own mind the duty required. I had no thought of refusal, yet appreciated to the full the possible danger of the venture, and felt anxious to make no serious mistake. I had achieved a reputation for reckless daring, yet this kind of service was hardly to my liking. To wear British uniform meant my condemnation as a spy, if discovered, and a death of disgrace. I had been within the lines of the enemy often before, but always as a scout, wearing the homespun of the Maryland line, but this was to be a masquerade, a juggling with chance. I was not greatly afraid of being unmasked by the officers of the garrison, but there were those then in Philadelphia who knew me—loyalists, secret sympathizers with our cause, and not a few deserters from the army—whom I might encounter at any turn in the road. The prospect was not alluring, yet a glance aside at the profile of Washington, now bending low over a mass of papers, instantly stiffened my resolve. It was worth it, and no excuse to shrink—indeed no inclination—no I returned Hamilton's glance of inquiry frankly.

"You wish me to go at once?"

"The earlier the better. I will furnish passports through our lines, and hard riding will put you across the neutral ground by daylight."

SLEEP DISTURBING BLADDER WEAKNESS, BACKACHE-RHEUMATISM, QUICKLY VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers
Find Relief After a Few Doses are Taken.

Backache, urinary disorders, and rheumatism, are caused from weak, inactive kidneys, which fail to filter out the impurities and keep the blood pure, and the only way on earth to permanently and positively cure such troubles, is to remove the cause.

The new discovery, Croxone, cures such conditions because it reaches the very roots of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering cells and glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism; it neutralizes the muscles to scratch and irritate and bladder, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, inactive kidneys so they filter and sift all the poisons from the blood, and drive it out of the system. So sure, so positive, so quick and lasting, are the results obtained from the use of Croxone, that three doses a day for a few days are often all that is required to cure the worst case of backache, rheumatism, and every other numerous other similar conditions.

It is the most wonderful preparation ever made for the purpose. It is entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth to compare with it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to get into the human system without results.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at a drug store from any first-class drug store.

All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give desired results, regardless of how old you are, how long you have suffered, or what else has failed to cure you.

NEW RAILROAD ECONOMY

Suggested That Competing Roads Cut Down Duplicating Trains.

Special to The Courier.

NEW YORK, April 30.—When the railroads of this country learned last year that they could not hope to shift the burden of increasing operating expenses put upon them by higher wage scales, augmented tax bills and interest charges to the shoulders of the buyers of transportation, they set about the only other way of protecting their earnings. If their revenues on the same amount of business could not be brought up by a revision of rates it was obvious that steps must be taken to handle the business more economically.

To this end it was seriously proposed several months ago that the roads operating in competing territory get together for the adoption of an understanding as to the operation of trains which to any considerable extent duplicated one another's facilities. Where two roads both ran hourly passenger trains, ordinarily not more than half of these trains and run trains alternately on one road and then the other. The idea went further and contemplated an arrangement for the common use by two or more roads of the best stretch of track in order to save the line of track between two cities. This measure has been to some extent already accepted by certain roads in the West one instance being found in an agreement between the Colorado and Southern and the Atchinson, by which the former abandoned a long stretch of track in order to use a better grade line connecting the same points, but owned by the competing company.

In this case it has proved cheaper for the Colorado and Southern to pay a fair rental price than to improve its own stretch of way or to continue sending heavy trains over the grades. As for the Atchinson, its tracks will not wear out any sooner for being used once or twice a day by a Colorado and Southern train, and the two roads share in the cost of keeping the one line in the best of condition.

Judge Orders Receivers of Wabash Road to Liquidate Debts.

CHICAGO, April 30.—Steps toward the liquidation of the obligations of the Wabash Railroad Company were taken yesterday, when Federal Judge George A. Carpenter entered an order directing the receivers to raise $1,500,000. The money will be raised by means of certificates of indebtedness and will be utilized in the settlement of interest on bonded debts and other obligations.

Wonderful Opportunities Today in the Apparel Section For a Woman to Buy Suits and Dresses for the Whole

Summer Long at Prices Made Possible Only by Our Recent Trip to Market.

Every woman knows the delight of choosing from a great array of clothing—choosing what suits her taste, what suits her purse. But it is only the merchant with a great and fashionable clientele who can experience the fascination there is in choosing scores of suits and gowns from collections that number hundreds—picking and choosing—brushing aside a dozen and selecting one—taking none but the finely made—none but the fashionable, none but the true in fabric and taste. And after all that, paying but a little!

We cannot take our customers with us when we go into the market—but we can show you today the result of a past week's buying in a market that is upset and show you what really wonderful savings we have for you.

Silk Dresses at $6.75—made to sell at $10—and selling briskly today—illustrates the point exactly.

The Newest Spring Style in Women's Smart Footwear is the Colonial Pump

No laces or buttons—these pumps hold to the foot by virtue of the scientifically designed last, together with a proper heel. These styles have buckles of metal or self covered. Wright-Metzler styles in Colonial pumps have the neat and trim appearance required by the vogue of the shortened skirt. Shown in dull, tan, patent and suede leathers and in white, $3 to $4 a pair. Button, straight lace and blucher Oxford in all the leathers and silk, satin, white nubuck and canvas—$2.00 to $3.50 pair. We show more styles in white—the leading color—than any other store in town.

Why Use a Broom?

Sweeping is back-breaking work and only the strong, vigorous woman can do much sweeping without feeling the effort.

Here—in the Sixth Floor Carpet Room—we have a "one-person" Vacuum Cleaner at $3.50 that is going to drive the broom into restricted use. It's so simply constructed it can't get out of order. It cleans as thoroughly as any machine made, and the cost of it—read it a second time. Come up and see it at work.

Who's Your Tailor?

BOSLET!

IT'S A MAN'S DUTY

to dress well; he owes it to society and himself. If he should give up every pleasure in order to be well clothed, he would be the gainer by it. A well-dressed man is usually a successful man. People listen to him respectfully, he has more chances in life than a shabby fellow. The men for whom we make clothing are well dressed in every sense of the expression. Style and fit are faultless, workmanship perfect, prices low.
